Do you have spots? While setting the holiday table or bringing out an extra quilt, you may discover 'rust stains' on your stored linens. These brown stains are often the result of acid from wood products. You can slow this process by creating a buffer between linens and the drawer or box in which they are stored. Line the storage space with aluminum foil then wrap the clean items in cotton sheets or pillowcases.

Murano: Glass from the Olnick Spanu Collection is at the Frist Center for Visual Arts in Nashville through January. View and study over 200 pieces of creative, colorful, spirited works of art in glass by Italian craftsmen. In order to recognize fakes and great buys, it is important to study the originals.
